VERB FORMS IN PLAVTVS.

THIS account of the verb forms in Plautus proceeds in the same direction as my earlier papers on noun, adjectival, and adverbial forms (Classical Review, July, December, 1902, July, 1903). I feel strongly that something is needed on Plautine forms that shall be more complete and accurate than anything that yet exists. The statements that one meets with, that this or that form is "common," or "regular," in Plautus, are frequently misleading, or even incorrect, and are usually unsatisfying. I do not think it is of much import whether a word occurs fifty times or fifty-five, but it often is important to know whether it occurs fifty times, or five, or once, or not at all.

As my examination has advanced, I have gained an increasing respect for manuscript tradition, a growing belief that the irregularities are, after all, in a certain sense regular. The whole system of inflexion—and, I suspect, of syntax also and of versification—was less fixed and stable in Plautus' time than it became later, and yet we cannot deny the reign of law therein to a large extent. I look, therefore, upon the long lists of variations to be noted in §§ 45, 46, 58 vi. as indicative, not of the carelessness of the copyists, but rather of the real state of the language as Plautus knew it and used it.

PRESENT INDICATIVE.

§ 1.—Second Person Singular, Passive.

-re at vs. or colon end	48
-re before consonants	94
-re before vowels	63
Total	205

Neue gives only about 170, and lists reuórtĕreís, Men. 256, as present passive, instead of future perfect active.
5 6

-ris at vs. or colon end	8
-ris elsewhere, not required by metre . .	13 (a)
-rís, accented, before consonants . . .	4 (b)
-ris before vowels	4 (c)
Total	29

Among those marked (a), note Am. 344, mentíris núnc, at the end of a trochaic septenarius. Five show -ris standing in the weak part of the third foot of an iambic senarius—that is, just before the main caesura; but probably no significance is to be attached to the fact. Two prevent a verse from ending with two iambi (Curc. 200, Mil. 505). The other five occur in various other places in the verse, and seem to show no points in common.

Those marked (b) are:—

As. 611, mínitaris mihí, iamb. septen.
2 3 4

Capt. 963, mínitaris mihí, troch. septen.
6 7 8

Ps. 237, praeuórtaris quam, anap. septen.
3 4

Trin. prol. 1, fúngaris tuóm, iamb. sen.

Those marked (c) are:—

Am. 369, mentíris étiam, troch. septen.
2 3

Mil. 1171, réuereáris ét, troch. septen.
5 6 7

Pers. 744, lámentéris. # Occidí, iamb. sen.
3 4 5 6

Poen. 1088, utéris út, iamb. sen.
2 3

Out of 234 instances, therefore, only 29 end in -ris, and of these only 8 must so end. Interrogative forms in -in are not included in these figures.

In Curc. 40, 41, the joke depends upon the termination -re: Phaedromus uses obloquere as an indicative, but Palinurus chooses to understand it as an imperative. Compare the assonance in Most. 51:—

Quasi inuidere míhi hoc uidere, Grúmio.

The two endings are thus distributed among the tenses:—

	-re	-ris
Present indicative	132	21
Imperfect indicative . . .	Ps. 798
Future indicative	28	Poen. 1088
Present subjunctive . . .	43	7
Imperfect subjunctive . . .	Ps. 1236
	205	29

They are thus distributed among the conjugations:—

	-re	-ris
First, passive	12
deponent	78	16
Second, passive	12
deponent	15	1
Third, passive	15	1
deponent	61	8
Fourth, passive	1
deponent	11	3
	205	29

These figures show that the statements made in Madvig's Grammar, § 114, b certainly do not all hold good for Plautus. Of the words occurring most frequently, we may notice arbitrare, 10; fabulare, 9; morare, 7; uidere, 9; loquere and compounds, 30; loqueris, 4; mentire, 4; mentiris, 3.

§ 2.—Miscellaneous Present Forms.

coépťó, Men. 960 (Nonius).
7 8

coepit, Aul. 461, Merc. 250. Cf. Truc. 232, and Pers. 121.

concrédŭó, Aul. 585; cf. Cas. 479.
5 6

interduo, Frag. Fab. Inc. 2 (Varro).

dănúnt, at vs. end, 10; med. vs., Pers. 256, Ps. 767.

dices, Trin. 606, is probably future, and not present as the context would seem to demand.

pudeo, Cas. 877; taedeo, Cas. frag. (Cledonius).

sustollo is found in the present system in Cist. 115, Poen. 349, Mil. 310, Cist. 550, Poen. 1168; the perfect forms sustuli, etc., 9 times.

tăgo, Mil. 1092 (Bothe); cf. attigas, etc., § 24.

A verb tulo is attested by Diomedes, who quotes the form abstulas as occurring in the Rudens; see § 25, ad. fin.

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE.

§ 3.—Aibam or aiebam?

exaudibam, E. 239 (B).
scibam, shown by MSS., 5; by metre only, 2.
ai[ ]bas, 7, shown by metre only.
aiebas, 7.
nesci[ ]bas, B. 676 (Guyet).
scibas, Aul. 754 (MSS.), Ps. 500 (MSS.).
serui[ ]bas, Capt. 247 (Pylades).
ai[ ]bat, 15, shown by metre only.
aiebat, 16.
croccibat, Aul. 625 (-ibat MSS.).
praesagibat, Aul. 178 (MSS.).
scibat, Am. prol. 22 (B). aiebatis, Capt. 676; the short form is not found in Plautus.
scibatis, R. 378 (MSS.).
ai[ ]bant, shown by metre only, Merc. 635, Mil. 66.
aiebant, 6.
gestibant, As. 315 (MSS.).

The manuscripts show 13 of these 41 short forms, and metre alone proves the remaining 28. Of the verb aio, the short forms of the imperfect occur 24 times, the full forms 30 times.

FUTURE INDICATIVE.

§ 4.—Future in -bo.

§ 5.—Future in -so.

capso, B. 712 (MSS.).
occepso, Am. 673 (Nonius), Cas. 1001 (MSS.); occépĕrít, Am. 724.

faxo, 74 instances. Faxo (and the same holds of other similar forms) is to be looked on as a future, fac -so, like λύ-σω, and not as a future perfect, in spite of such passages as B. 848–849, Capt. 695, Poen. 1191, Frag. 77, Fretum, where faxo and fecero stand close to each other. Cf. Aul. 788, 789, for the corresponding subjunctive.

effexis, Cas. 708 (B), Poen. 428 (A). faxis, 9 as future; for subjunctives see § 22.

occepsit, As. 794 (MSS.).
cápsĭmús, R. 304 (MSS.), colon end.
faxint, Poen. 1208 (MSS.).

Total, 98 instances.

§ 6.—Future in -asso.

Such forms as amasso, enicasso are not derived in any way from amauero, enicauero; they are futures, and not future perfects. Cf. S. 149:—

Néque ego té celábo néque tu mé celássis.

The instances in Plautus are confined to the first conjugation, i.e. we do not get in Plautus such a form as prohibesso. Yet we do get, as aorist subjunctives, such forms as prohibessis, Aul. 611, and ambissit, Am. prol. 71 (Fruterius); see § 22.

amasso, Cas. 1001, 1002.
commonstrasso, E. 441 (B^2; -strauero, B^1).
enicasso, Most. 212, 223.
indicasso, Poen. 888.

comparassit, E. 122 (BJ).
decolassit, Cas. 307 (decolla sit, VE). demutassit, S. 725 (demutas sit, CD).
occeptassit, R. 776 (occeptas sit, CD).
occupassit, As. 818 (occupas sit, BD).
peccassit, Cas. 825.
exoculássĭtĭs, R. 731 (exoculas sitis, CD).
inuitássĭtĭs, R. 811 (inuitas sitis, BCD).
mulcássĭtĭs, Mil. 163 (A; mulca sitis, B).
curassint, Poen. prol. 27 (cura sint, BC).

Total, 33 instances.

Except S. 149, R. 1028, S. 724, these are all introduced by si, nisi, nei, ubi, siue.

With these compare such forms as locassim, § 23, and impetrássĕré, § 34.

§ 7.—Future in -em.

Ps. 214, faciem, B[1]; faciam, A, editors.
Ps. 965, faciem, B; faciet, reliqui, editors.
Pers. 147, facĭē, C; faciam, BD, editors.
Truc. 963, sinem, BCD; sinam, editors.
B. 405, experier, D[1]; experiar, D[2], editors; experior, B.
In Mil. 676, accipiem, BCD, accipiam is probably subjunctive.

Such forms seem exceeding doubtful; even the passage in Quintilian (I. 7. 23) is not perfectly clear.

PERFECT INDICATIVE.

§ 8.—Second Person Singular, Active, of Perfects in -si.

abduxti, Curc. 614 (B); cf. R. 862.
adduxtin, Capt. 1016 (MSS.); adduxisti, E. 156, R. 497.

scripsti, As. 802 (Pius; scriptis, MSS.). traduxti, Cas. 579 (B[2]); cf. Cas. 597, traduxisti.

Twenty-four of these instances are shown by MSS., eleven by metre only Note Merc. 658:—

Iam dixisti? # Dixi. # Frustra dixti.

§ 9.—Third Person Plural, Active.

Forms like adlegarunt, Poen. 773, are not included in these figures (there are 11 such).

-ĕrunt at vs. or colon end:—

Am. 184, fécĕrúnt, iamb. octon.
Pers. 160, locáuĕrúnt. (3 4)

oblitus fui, etc. (fueram, fuero, fuant, forem, fuerim), at vs. end, 24; med. vs., 22, viz.:—Curc. 566, Merc. 228, Pers. 22, R. 217, Trin. 383, 1090; S. 722; Merc. 232,

Most. 487; Am. 430; Most. 821; E. 123, Men. 472, Poen. 1280; E. 282; R. 218; Mil. 1083; Most. 799; Truc. 341; Pers. 380; E. 225; Pers. 79. Add indutum fuisse, Men. 515 [oblitus fui, etc. 6; oblitus sum, etc. 7].

Such forms prove to be more numerous than one might imagine, and they are by no means confined to words that make a neat verse-end.

§ 11.—Double Forms of Perfect.

aper<t>uistis?, Cist. 3 (Exon). íncrepáui, Most. 750 (B; increpitauit, CD).
concrépuit, 9; (con)crepuerunt, 4.
increpui, R. prol. 69.
increpuit, Am. 1077.
concrédui, Cas. 479; the form concrédŭó, Aul. 585, shows that we ought to look upon this as a different formation, rather than as a wavering in principal parts.
concredidi, Aul. 615, Men. 702.
concrédĭdĭt, Aul. prol. 6.
parsi, 8.
pepércĕrĭs, Aul. 381 (MSS., metre).
pepercisses, Truc. 375 (A; parsisses, BCD). uota[ui]sti?, Capt. 704; uotui, Capt. 703, seems against this; yet cf. B. 865, 866, for sudden change (from deponent to active form).

§ 12.—Interchange of Voice.

coepi with active infinitive, 10; with deponent infinitive, 3; coépta appéllarist, Men. 718.
désitúmst potárĭer, Most. 958.
nequítur cómprĭmí, R. 1064; retrahí nequítur, Frag. 112, Saturio (Festus); néc subigí queántur, Pers. 194.
odi, 4; ósa sum óptuérĭér, Am. 900.
licuit, 2; licitumst, 7 (for detailed references for this and the following verbs, see § 46).
lubuit, 4; (con)lubitum est, etc., 17.
placuit, 2; (com)placitum est, etc., 3.
puduit, 1; puditumst, 2.
miseritumst, Trin. 430, and taesumst, Most. 316, show no corresponding active forms.

Gellius, VI. 9, mentions ce*curri*, me*mordi*, pe*posci*, pe*pugi*, spe*pondi*, as occurring in early Latin. He cites from Plautus *ad*me*mordit*, Aul. frag. 2; to this we may add me*mordit*, Poen. 1074 (me mordit, C; mo*mordit*, B).

Pupugi seems not to occur in Plautus in any form, and cucurri only in compounds. Of the other words we have at least three instances:—popóscit, Truc. 240; popóscĕrĭt, S. 556; and spopondi, Trin. 427,—all with -o-.

Gellius, VI. 9, also cites praemorsisset, Frag. 120, Trigemini. There are at least eleven instances of reduplication in compound verbs, viz.:—

abscondidi, Merc. 360, Frag. 51, Carbonaria (Priscian).
ac<cu>currimus, Cist. 710 (Lindsay).
condidici, Curc. 534.
éxcucúrrĕrĭt, Most. 359.
éxcucúrrisse, B. 359.
óccucúrri, Merc. 201 (B).
praécucúrri, Merc. 223, S. 392.
praécucúrristi, Am. 796, Men. 1057.

Other reduplicated forms are:—

réccĭdĭt, Poen. 1369 (A). repperi, etc., numerous instances.
reppuli(t), B. 633, 967, Cas. 888, R. 672.
rettulit, etc., 6.
tetuli, etc., 12 (te tuli, Am. 716, Men. 381, 630).
tuli: Aul. 433, ad <te> tuli; Poen. 1067, aegre tŭlí; Curc. 644, túlerat (MSS.).
adtuli, etc., more than forty instances.

Tetini and tenui are discussed by Lindsay, in Harvard Studies, IX, 127–130. He finds tetini established for Plautus by these four places:—

As. 582, contini (continui, MSS.), required by metre.
Am. 926, abstinei (abstines, MSS.).
Am. 690, continit (continet, MSS.).
Mil. 1327, attinēre (with transposition).

Tenui, and compounds, occurs 12 times, but Lindsay is of the opinion that "there is not sufficient evidence to prove that it ever was used by Plautus," or, if it was used by him, to determine how far it competed with the form tetini.

§ 14.—Perfect of ire.

exiuí, S. 459 (MSS.).
transiuit, Mil. 997 (BCD).

tĕrŏ, Capt. 194 (MSS.).
5 6
tĕrŏ, S. 484 (this verse is in A only).
5 6
ambluĕrĭt, Am. prol. 74 (MSS.).
5 6
iuĭsse, Most. 842 (ABCD).

Such forms as exĭĭt, Merc. 40; péri<ĭ>mús, Men. 1015; ábiĕrŏ, E. 515; praetériĕrĭt, Pers. 402, are fairly common at vs. end (at least 15 such). Add exĭí, Ps. 1282, bacchiac vs.; [i]ít, perfect, Most. 25; abĭt, Men. 450 (ABD); Mil. 251 (A); R. 325 (MSS.); exit, Mil. 376 (MSS.), 416 (MSS.); exīt, Ps. 730 (A only) redi[i]t, As. 395; interi[i]t, B. 950.

§ 15.—Perfect of pono.

(i) Posiui shown by MSS. readings, 6 instances:—

Ps. 1281, posiui (B), bacchiac verse.
Curc. 536, deposiui (B).
As. 519, reposiui (BJ).
Truc. 460, supposiui (B), bacchiac verse.
Cas. 853, exposiuit (AB).
Trin. 145, postŭĕrĭs (B).
5 6

(ii) Posiui shown by metre only, 7 instances:—

Mil. 905, adpos<ĭ>ui, Camerarius.
R. 916, praepos<ĭ>ui, Camerarius, bacchiac verse.
Most. 382, depos<ĭ>uit, Camerarius.
R. 357, inpos<ĭ>uit, Camerarius.
Curc. 356, oppos<ĭ>uit, Camerarius.
Truc. 804, suppos<ĭ>uit, Camerarius.
B. 306, depos<ĭ>ŭĭmús, Acidalius.
5 6

Add Vid. 103, postŭĭmús, Priscian, and inposisse, Most. 434 (BCD[1]).

VERB FORMS IN PLAVTVS.

§ 16.—Diaeresis and Syncopation in Perfects.

coëpi, Cas. 701, Cist. 687, both in bacchiac verse.
coëpit, Cas. 651, bacchiac verse.
mécum rém cŏĕpit, Merc. 533, iamb. septen.
súr[ru]pŭĭt, at vs. end, Capt. prol. 8, 760, 1011. One would like to read similar forms in Men. 510, súrrupuí, and in Poen. prol. 66, súrripitúr, but these are by no means sure.
3 4 3 4

The participle surruptus occurs 14 times. This is the only form possible metrically, in eight places. Either the fuller or the syncopated form might stand in the other six, viz.:—

Poen. 902 (we can keep the fuller form by reading ind').
Pers. 150 (" " " " und').
R. 1105 (" " " " fŭĭt uirgó).
4 5
Poen. 1346 (" " " " eae súnt).
Poen. 1058 (" " " " Antídama[s] hospés; but in 955 we get Antidamás fuít).
4 5
Pers. 380 (et ut uí?).

Other syncopated perfects are réccĭdít, repperi, reppuli, rettuli; see § 13, and § 53, iurĭgo, etc. Add Pers. 834, conciliaut? (concilia ut BCD); cf. Mil. 1038, Cas. 543, As. 501.

§ 17.—Habes with Perfect Passive Participle.

This occurs very frequently in Plautus, but "Cases in which it is the equivalent of the perfect active are more rare than has been supposed; probably there are none in Plautus." Morris. See Thielmann, in Archiv L.L. II, 372–423, 509–549.

FUTURE PERFECT.

§ 18.—Quantity of -i-.

Short -i- is correct for the future perfect, long -i- for the perfect subjunctive; but the two tenses are often confused in quantity. In Plautus we find 6 (10?) instances of short -i- in the future perfect, and 7 (8?) instances of long -i-; in the perfect subjunctive 10 (12?) instances of long -i-, and 5 of short -i-. He seems, therefore, to be somewhat more correct in his measurement of the perfect subjunctive. Cf. § 26.

(i) Short -i-:—

B. 1195, si ámisĕrĭ' post ín, anap. septen.

Ps. 946, ubi effécĕrĭs hóc, anap. septen.
2 3 4 5 6

Mil. 157, quemque ŭídĕrĭtĭs, troch. septen.
2 3

Mil. 160, quemque uidĕrĭtis, troch. septen.
1 2 4

Similar to these are four others, though they are strictly futures and not future perfects (see §§ 5, 6):—

R. 304, nisi cápsĭmús, iamb. septen., colon end.
3 4

R. 731, ni exoculássĭtĭs, troch. septen.
7 8

R. 811, nei inuitássĭtĭs, iamb. sen.
5 6

Mil. 163, ni mulcássĭtĭs, troch. septen.

(ii) Long -i-:—

5 6

Ps. 100, nisi . . . fléuerís argénteís, iamb. sen.
3 4 5 6

Poen. 213, si . . . óccéperís éx, bacchiac verse.
2 3

Men. 256, nisi . . . reuórtĕreís, iamb. sen.

3 4 5 6

Add the future nisi . . . orásseis, E. 728, troch. septen.

Other possible instances, at colon end, are of course too doubtful to be listed.

cómminíscere, cedo cálidum, Mil. 226 ; complécteré, As. 615, is less probable, as it stands at change of speaker.

This has been said to be the only form in -ier with a short antepenult, but there is another instance in Poen. 742.

Poen. 742, iamb. sen. :—

Forás egrédier uídeo.

Doubtless we should read Forăs égredíre uídeo. Cf. § 45 (7).

Cas. 220, anap. septen. :—

Cas. 723, anap. septen. :—

patricéque amicírier átque.

Note Mil. 881, iamb. septen. :—

At méliust * monériér. # Meretricem cómmonéri, and Truc. 753, troch. septen. :—

Síne experíri. # Imímo ópperíre : uís est éxperíri<ér>.

§ 35.—Miscellaneous Future Infinitives.

Cas. 693, *occisur*um ait, = *occisur*am (esse) (-am, AB^2; -um, B^1. Cf. Gellius I. 7. 11).

Truc. 400, bona sua me <d> *habitur*um, = *habitur*am (esse) (-um, BCD. Cf. Jahrb. 1872, p. 571, and Dr. Postgate in Class. Rev. xviii. (1904) 451 ff.).

Mil. 941, confido confuturum (Camerarius ; cum futurum, B ; cumfuturum, CD).

Cas. 699, datum iri ; R. 1242, praédatum íríér. This is noteworthy as apparently the only place in which this verbal form has been preserved in extant literature in a deponent use: see Dr. Postgate in 'Proceedings of the Cambridge Philological Society 1891,' p. 24, Class. Rev. xvii. (1903) 57 ; Curc. 491, rédditum eíri (fíri, MSS.); Truc. 886, tactum ri.

Gerunds and gerundives, not including eundus, oriundus, secundus, show -und- 82 times, -end- 71 times.

Nonius 76, 14, cites nobis praesente, as occurring in the Amphitruo. This is thought to refer to verse 400; cf. the three verses quoted by Pius between Am. 824 and 825.

Truc. 125, tuis seruio atque audiens sum imperiis ; Capt. 925, carens fui ; Am. prol. 132, cupiens maxumest ; Mil. 997, cupiens est ; Poen. 660, est cupiens ; R. 943, sum indigens ; Most. 141, neglegens fui ; Poen. 1038 sis sciens.

THE VERB SUM.

§ 37.—Second Person Singular, Present Indicative.

ēs, 60 instances. To these we must add ess, Merc. 489 (A) ;
ess, R. 240 (B) ; and six places in the Truculentus where the MSS. give esse for es, viz. :—

Truc. 152, eẽ, B ; esse, C D (dittography before sed?).
Truc. 176, eẽ, BD ; esse, C.
Truc. 289, ēẽ, BD ; esse, C.
Truc. 373, eẽ, BD ; esse, C (vs. end).
Truc. 378, isse, BCD.
Truc. 529, eẽ, B ; es, CD.

There are various places where es appears as est, but these do not seem to point to the form ess so clearly as do those showing esse.

Es, imperative: animó bŏnŏ's, at vs. end, Aul. 732, Cist. 591, Mil. 1206 (?), Ps. 322 ; bóno animŏ's, Aul. 787, Cist. 73, Mil. 1143, 1342, R. 679 ; animo liquido et tranquillo's, E. 643, liquido's animo, Ps. 232. No one of these eleven instances proves length for the imperative.

§ 38.—Siem, etc.

sies	23	Poen. 148, Truc. 897.

adsiet	2	Ps. 1115.
subsiet	1
	170	21

The 13 instances of siet med. vs. are Am. prol. 106, Am. 157, Aul. 370, B. 652, Cas. 176, 514, Men. 764, Merc. 175, Mil. 261, Poen. 1405, Ps. 1120, R. 321, S. 202.

The 21 instances of these words med. vs. are (except Cas. 176, 177) well attested by MSS. (3 by ABCD), and 11 of them seem required by metre (bacchiac verse, 1; cretic, 1; fourth foot of senarius, 4; scattering, 5). Leo generally retains them in such places, but prints the shorter forms where the metre does not demand the longer ones. Lindsay, on the contrary, nearly always accepts the MSS. readings, whether required by metre or not. In R. 321, siet would give a solitary iambic octonarius in a long series of iambic septenarii, 290–413. In Cas. 514 the initial siet comes by copying the final siet of 513. Note Men. 341:—

Rogitánt quoiátis sít, quid ei nomén siét;

Trin. 694:—

Tíbi sit émoluméntum honóris; míhi quod óbiecténtt siét; and Pers. 237, sis . . . siem; R. 1381, sis . . . siem; Trin. prol. 6, sim . . . siet; E. 574–75, sit . . . siet.

"The equivalent of forsitan (which is not used by Plautus, and only seldom, if ever, by Terence) is in Plautus fors fuat an, e.g. Pseud. 432." It is wrong to use e.g. here, for fors fuat an occurs in Plautus once only, Ps. 432.

Active and Deponent Forms.

§ 46.—Seventy-six verbs show forms wavering between active and deponent or differing from the forms usual in other authors. The discussion in Langen, Beiträge, pp. 59-68, is confessedly only a supplement to a list given by Brix in his note on Mil. 172; but, even when taken together, these two lists are incomplete. In the following account strict alphabetical order is departed from occasionally for the sake of bringing together scattered forms.

(1) abusa, passive (so Nonius), As. 196.

(2) adsentio, R. 975.
adsentiant, Am. 824.
adsentior, deponent, Merc. 412.

§ 49.—Final Syllables in -t.

(i) Final -āt.

This length is so perfectly certain that we hardly ought to doubt that such a passage as Pers. 826, fáciebát in Ióniá (5 6 7 8) ought to be read with -āt, rather than with the questionable division of the ictus-part of the foot. However, in the following lists, I have given, first, instances that admit of no other explanation; and, secondly, instances that might be explained as division of thesis, syllaba anceps at colon end or at change of speaker, etc., even though I believe they are better explained as true instances of archaic long vowels.

Compounds.

§ 54.—Compounds of facio.

(i) Iambic shortening possible.

călĕfácio and derivatives, 6.
commŏnĕfaciam, S. 63.
lăbĕfacto, Merc. 403.
mădĕfáctatis, Ps. 184.
permădĕfécit, Most. 143.
pătĕfeci, Most. 1046.
perpăuĕfaciam, S. 85.

(ii) Quantity of -e- indeterminate.

cándefácere, Most. 259.
féruefáciunt, Ps. 833.
frígefáctas, Poen. 760, R. 1326.

(iii) E shown to be long.

contabēfăcít, Ps. 21.

expergēfăcís Curc. 198.

perfrigēfăcít, Ps. 1215.

putēfacit, Most. 112, cretic verse (putrefacit, MSS.).

(iv) olfactare, etc., Men. 163, 167, 169.

(v) compendi facio has been described as a compound ; for this we can list compendi făcé, Most. 60 ; compéndi féci, Pers. 471 ; and compéndi fácere, Truc. 377. On the other hand, facio precedes compendi in 4 places, and is otherwise separated from it in B. 183,—so the two words cannot be looked upon as making a compound. The acc. compendium occurs with facio 4 times, and 4 times with other verbs.

(vi) satis faciat, Am. 889.
satis fecit, As. 437.
fecisse satis, As. 437.
facturum satis, As. 497.

(vii) That bene facio and male facio are not true compounds, is shown not only by the failure of the -a- to weaken to -i-, but by such expressions as bene quae in me fecerunt, Am. 184; faciánt bĕné, Men. 1021; bene et male facere, B. 655; ad malé faciúndum, E. 378, colon end of iamb. septen., malé with syllaba anceps. Cf. Trin. 328, 633, Poen. 1212.—There are at least 40 places where the adverb does not directly precede the verb. There is a nest of instances in Truc. 465–470.

The same is true of bene dico and male dico; e.g. Té potiús bene dícere aéquomst hómini amíco quám malé, Trin. 924 (with this compare Truc. 469, Múlierí nimió male fácere mélius ópus est quám benĕ); maleque dictis, B. 982; dicturím mălé, Trin. 71. Add B. 118, 464, Ps. 521, S. 469.

§ 55.—Compounds of eo.

(i) círcŭmís, R. 140.
círcumít, As. 742, Truc. 407.
círcumímus, Men. 231.
círcumírĕr, Curc. 451.
cir(cum) íre, Ps. 899.

(ii) intro ire, and not introire, is the prevailing usage.

(a) Such expressions as ite intro, ibo intro, are common.

(b) Intro is frequently separated from the verb by other words, and may precede or follow it, e.g.

intro te ut eas, Mil. 1385.
intro quin eam, Cist. 117. Similarly, intro . . . mittar, Truc. 732.
ite . . . intro, Aul. 451.
ibo . . . intro, Am. 1145.

(c) When intro directly precedes the verb, the -o is prevailingly elided (not so in Mil. 1168, at main caesura). A good instance is Merc. 567, at verse end, intr(o) ĕás.

(d) Rarely the two words seem to make a compound:—
introibis, or intro | ibis, B. 907, Men. 662.
introieris, Merc. 570 (read illo or illuc?).
introierit, Trin. prol. 10.

The instances are so few, as compared with the others, that it is probably better to think of hiatus here, than of true compounds.

§ 56.—Miscellaneous.

animum aduorto is not a compound, for we find aduorto preceding animum, 11 times;
animum separated from aduorto, 2 instances: As. 732, Animum, Argyrippe, aduorte, and Am. prol. 38, animum omnes quae loquar aduortite.
animum aduorto, side by side in this order, approximately 42 instances.

Curious is Merc. 15, Atque áduorténdum ad ánimum adést benígnitás. Trin. 1046 gives Non hoc publice animum aduorti. Mil. 39 is not included in the above enumeration, for it is not quite like the rest: Facéte aduórtis túom animum ád animúm meúm.

nequeo, etc., 49.
neque . . . queo, 5.
nón quĕó, etc., at vs. end, 11 (nónqueó, as one word, Men. 1124, B). non queo, med. vs., 17 (noenum . . . queo, Aul. 67–69; cf. Aul. 74–76). distráxissént disqué tulissént, Trin. 833, anap. octon.
ne facere si uelim (ne . . . uelim)?, Truc. 877.
super illi fuerit, Curc. 85.
Tmesis occurs, to a moderate extent, in other parts of speech also.

§ 57.—Prepositions in Compounds.

These would more properly be treated under prepositions than here with verbs; a few forms only will be mentioned now.

antideo, B. 1089, Cas. 225, Cist. 205, Pers. 779, Ps. 933, Trin. 546. aps-, e.g. Men. prol. 66, 166, 476, 833.

ogganiam, As. 422 (B).

oggerit, Cist. 70 (B), Truc. 103 (BCD).

oggerunt, Ps. 812 (BCD).

praehibeo or praebeo ? The evidence points clearly to praĕhĭbeo.

praei, monosyllabic, R. 1335.

praeoptauisse, etc., -aeo- one syllable, Capt. 688, Trin. 648.

prehendo or prendo ? prehen- is needed metrically in 9 instances, and is possible in the remaining 5 or 6 instances of this word.

susfuror, Truc. 566 (BCD).

susscribam, Poen. 800 (BCD).

sussilite, Curc. 151 (BEJ).

sussultas, Capt. 637 (BE).

Cf. sum manus, Pers. 450 (BC) ; add E. 108, Merc. 962.

súpterdúxerit, As. 278 (BD, separatim).

suptérfugisse, B. 771 (B, separatim).

subter- in composition, Capt. 970, Men. 449, Merc. 195, Mil. 343.

subter as a preposition is not found in Plautus.

tramittas, E. 155 (AB^2), 463 (AB).

trauolauerunt, E. 35 (B).

trauorsis, Pers. 444 (codd. Lambini et Scaligeri).

trans- in composition, 8.

trans as a preposition, twice only : Merc. 354, trans mare asportet, and Mil. 468, transtinet trans parietem.

MISCELLANEOUS.

§ 58.—Miscellaneous Verb Forms.

(i) 'Please.'

si audes, Poen. 757, Trin. 244.

sodes, B. 837, Men. 545, Pers. 318, Trin. 562.

audeo, to be willing, 12.

sis, parenthetical, approximately 129 instances (Merc. 777, seis, A).

sis = si uis, but not used parenthetically, As. 309, sis subuenire . . . adest, and As. 683, sis sospitare . . . da.

sultis, 13 ; in Ps. 1334 it is not used parenthetically, but governs adplaudere (so Hermann,—sed uoltis, MSS.).

amabo, used by a woman, 91 instances ; used by a man, 9 (?).

(ii) Voice.

On coepta, nequitur, licitumst, etc., see § 12. On certain participles, see § 36.

meditábor [me] ád, or meditábo[r] me ád, S. 306.

se conuortitur, Am. 238 (Nonius) ; te conuortes, R. 999.

(iii) Varia.

domi domatus, Men. 105 (so Lindsay, Cl. Rev. xii. 232 ; domitus MSS.).

ma-m-ma-madere, Most. 319, 331 ; cf. R. 528–538, as given by Sonnenschein.

nefaceres, Ps. 437 (D).

nefacere, Truc. 877 (re facere, BC) ; cf. §§ 42 ad fin., 56 ad fin.

neparcunt, Most. 124 (B^{2}D).

recharmida, Trin. 977 (MSS. ; see Leo's note).

tua re feceris, Capt. 296 ; cf. Men. 661, Capt. 959.

spicit, Mil. 694 (ABCD) ; specimen specitur, B. 399 (BCD), Cas. 516 (BVE).

(iv) Puns.

Puns and assonance are very frequent ; only a few examples can be quoted here.

Curc. 553, 554, uale, aegrota ; cf. Truc. 259, 260, salue, aegrotare malim.

Ps. 273, Quid agitur ? # Amatur atque egetur acriter ; cf. Ps. 457, Pers. 208.

Curc. 314, Facite uentum ut gaudeam.

Mil. 33, 34 auribus Per<h>aurienda ; cf. B. 276, audi, haud au(i)di.

Poen. 279, Assum apud te eccum. # At ego elixus sis uolo.

R. 1224–1226, infelīcet, līcentia, līcet. The matter of quantity must not be pressed in Latin puns. Cf. Curtius Rufus, 10. 9. 4 calīganti, with probable reference to Calīgula.

Two more may be mentioned, Aul. 635, tibi, and Aul. 737, 754, illam.

(v) Syntax.

Fortasse, ilicet, scilicet and uidelicet, though they show no aberration in form have the peculiarity of appearing occasionally with distinct verbal function, governing an infinitive, or taking an accusative of limit of motion. So are found :—

fortasse, As. 36, B. frag. xxi, E. 296, Merc. 782, Poen. 1004, Truc. 680 ; otherwise used, 14 instances.

ilicet, Capt. 90, 469 ; otherwise used, 7 times.

scilicet, As. 787, Curc. 263, Ps. 1179, R. 395 ; otherwise used, 10 (11 ?) instances.

uidelicet, As. 599, S. 555, 557 ; otherwise used, 3 times.

(vi).—Parallel or similar forms occur frequently in the same verse, or in close connection one with another. The following list is grouped roughly to show related matters.

NOTICES OF PREVIOUS PARTS.

ATHENÆUM.—"This is the first instalment of a work of gigantic labour which Mr. C. H. Turner has set himself to accomplish, a complete critical edition of the earliest monuments of the Canon law of the West. . . . We may say with confidence that what Mr. Turner has done will not have to be done again. The faultless printing is worthy of the Oxford University Press."

ENGLISH HISTORICAL REVIEW.—"Mr. Turner has begun the work of editing, with a full apparatus criticus, the early canons of the Latin Church on a scale so ample, and in a manner so carefully thought out, and so handsomely executed, that it confers honour both upon him and upon the Oxford Press. . . . He has packed away, in the smallest of type, stores of knowledge which would have furnished out a succession of review articles. . . . The erudition is admirable."

GUARDIAN.—"The next part of this fine book is to contain the Latin versions, 'some ten or twelve in number,' of the Nicene Creed and Canons. We look forward to its appearance with agreeable anticipations, and we are sure all scholars will feel with us real satisfaction that so important a work should have fallen into such competent hands."

ANALECTA BOLLANDIANA.—"'Magnae molis inceptum adgredior,' dit le savant professeur d'Oxford en commençant la publication des anciens monuments du droit canon occidental. L'énorme somme de travail que représentent ces deux premiers fascicules montre bien que l'auteur ne s'est point exagéré la difficulté de sa tâche, et son exemple ramènera à la réalité ceux qui pourraient rêver encore d'improviser une nouvelle collection des conciles et de la terminer en une ou deux semaines d'années. . . . La disposition typographique est des plus heureuses. . . . On peut conclure de tout ceci que les canonistes ne seront pas seuls à profiter du travail de M. Turner. Tous ceux qui s'intéressent aux études ecclésiastiques doivent souhaiter, avec nous, qu'il puisse mener à bonne fin."

CORNELII TACITI ANNALIUM AB EXCESSU DIVI AUGUSTI LIBRI. The Annals of Tacitus. Edited with Introduction and Notes by HENRY FURNEAUX. Vol. II. Books XI—XVI. Second edition, revised by H. F. PELHAM and C. D. FISHER. With map, 8vo, cloth, 21*s.*

THE CULTS OF THE GREEK STATES. By LEWIS RICHARD FARNELL, D.Litt., M.A., F.A.S. Vols. I. and II., with 61 Plates and over 100 Illustrations. 32*s.* net; Vols. III. and IV., 8vo, cloth, with 86 Plates, 32*s.* net.

STANDARD.—"Perhaps the most important work on classical scholarship that has issued from any English University in recent years. The first portion of Dr. Farnell's book decisively established his reputation as an authority on Hellenic archaeology, ethnology, and mythology, and the present instalment (which is still to be succeeded by another) will confirm it. No other writer in England in recent years (and in saying it we are not unmindful of the author of 'The Golden Bough') has shown a more encyclopaedic knowledge and closer understanding of the ancient texts or a wider appreciation of all that modern science and research have done to throw light on the history of religious ideas . . . The volumes, in spite of the solidity of their learning, are neither heavy nor dull. They are, indeed, of absorbing interest, and they can be read with delight even by those who have forgotten most of their Greek, or never had any. The printing and the admirably illustrative plates do credit to the liberality of the publishers. It is in all respects such a book as an academic Press does well to produce!"
